Feed Date	Episode #	This week America's Heartland looks at:
12.08.21	AH-104	Visiting the historic King Ranch occupying more than 800,000 acres in South Texas. Also, examining the early harvest of "sweet" corn in Iowa – the kind even Iowans love on their late summer dinner plates.
12.15.21	AH-105	Visiting one of America's organic farms—MaryJane's Farm in northern Idaho. Also, exploring the rich, troubled history of the Creole farmers of old Louisiana. And reporting on the production of some of America's finest Swiss cheese at a business in which the local Amish community plays a central role.
12.22.21	AH-106	Visiting Pennsylvania with a man who once made his living demolishing old barns, but now is devoting his life to saving them. Also, visiting Gloucester, Massachusetts with descendants of the hard-working, hard-living Gloucester fisherman. And to visiting Muller's Farm – an 11-acre family farm operating in much the same way family farms did more than a century ago; that is, mostly by horse and hand power.
12.29.21	AH-107	Meeting a modern Montana cattle breeder who mixes the rough-and-ready lifestyle with science to build a better stock. Also, how a small herd of reindeer are attracting visitors by the busload.
