02.10.22	#RSR-123	Beach Rebuild - Part 2 With a brand new house now standing where it's 100-year-old predecessor was, Craig and Jana Caswell are excited to finish phase two of construction and finally move in after a year and a half. They take special care with the master suite, and use salvaged wood from the original house for flooring and accent walls. They also turn the wrecked scrap of land in the backyard into a waterfront wow, with a living landscape, butterfly garden, fire pit and new dock.
02.17.22	#RSR-124	1960s Expansion High school sweethearts Ashleigh and Kyle Pritchard married shortly after college and bought a house in a great neighborhood. As they prepare to start growing their family, they decide to build a brand new master suite. Midway through construction, a massive rainstorm drenches the existing part of the house through the unfinished roof.
02.24.22	#RSR-125	1950s Build On - Part 1 Kelsey and Trevor Brown are huge fans of Midcentury architecture and are thrilled when they find a home with original 1950s terrazzo floors and a spectacular vaulted ceiling. They create a design plan that will blend the historic features with modern upgrades, including a brand new master suite. When structural problems take center stage, their timeline and budget take a major hit.
03.03.22	#RSR-126	1950s Build On - Part 2 After living with their in-laws for a year and half during the interior renovation, Kelsey and Trevor Brown are relieved to finally be moving into their Midcentury Modern home. Phase two of the rehab includes a complete overhaul of the backyard, with a new deck and raised garden.
